Toronto Mayor Rob Ford talks to media at Toronto City Hall Thursday. Ford says he has no reason to step down despite police confirmation that they have seized a video that media have alleged appears to show him smoking crack cocaine. Story, page 4. FRANK GUNN/THE CANADIAN PRESS

Taking the bruising out of the boozing

Party's over. Proposed legislation would give police ability to remove known violent drinkers from bars, ban alcohol from party houses

The Manitoba Government hopes to reduce booze-fuelled violence across the province with proposed legislation targeting chronic party houses and drinkers — including known gang members — with a history of violent behaviour.

If passed, the Liquor and Gaming Control Legislation would allow booze to be banned for up to a year from private residences “where there have been repeated incidences of drunkenness” and give police the ability to pre-emptively remove people from bars or socials if they “create a risk of violence,” according to a provincial release.

Children and Youth Opportunities Minister Kevin Chief told media Wednesday the legislation was drafted with help from justice officials, and won't infringe on rights.

“(We're) responding to individuals from the community who say we need to take action to keep our community safe,” he said. “There has been a lot of thought and a lot of consultation done.”

Chief said the decision on which homes would be added to the ban and who will be asked to leave establishments would be made on a case-to-case basis by police and the new Liquor and Gaming Authority of Manitoba.

The Winnipeg Police Service came out in favour of the proposed legislation, as did North End residents who listened to Chief announce the plan on Boyd Avenue Wednesday.

“Building a connection with the police to use this tool to help prevent things from happening would definitely relieve some of the stress and anxiety that neighbourhood residents do feel when houses like this exist in their neighbourhood,” said area resident Maria Starr.

Hellboy storming Comic Con — mainly for bragging rights

Ron Perlman. The 'Peg is just the latest stop on actor's quest to hit all the cities in Canada

JIM TIMLICK
winnipeg@metronews.ca

He's been to hell, he's visited the island of Dr. Moreau and he's spent much of the past few years in the quaint town of Charming, Calif., but Ron Perlman had never set foot in Winnipeg until now.

Perlman, the star of the Hellboy movies and the TV series Sons of Anarchy, is one of the guests of honour for this year's Central Canada Comic Con, running this weekend at the RBC Convention Centre Winnipeg.

So what prompted him to visit the 'Peg? Sons co-star Kim Coates, who grew up in Saskatoon and constantly talks about the Great White North on set.

"I'm trying to hit all the Canadian cities," said Perlman. "If I can say I've been to more Canadian cities than Kim, I get bragging rights with Kim and that's something I live for."

Perlman has some serious geek cred. In addition to Hellboy, he has starred in Beauty and the Beast, Prince Valiant, Alien: Resurrection and Conan, and has done voice-over work for dozens of animated features and TV series, cast as everybody from Clayface and Bruce Banner to Deathstroke and Killer Croc.

He was part of the crew that boldly went where no one had gone before, but Walter Koenig admits his early career trajectory could have taken him in a much different direction.

Koenig, who played Ensign Pavel Chekov in the iconic TV show Star Trek, studied psychology at UCLA and earned a BA before deciding to give acting a shot.

"I think I could have made a good psychologist. I had an appetite for it," said Koenig, who is in Winnipeg this weekend for the Central Canada Comic Con. "But I have absolutely no regrets. I have been very lucky."

Koenig's appearance this year is a case of better late than never. He was supposed to appear last year but was forced to skip it due to poor health.

Koenig is a self-professed comics fan and has even written a couple of comic-book series, including Things to Come, the story of a group of post-apocalyptic vampires. He is also an avid collector of comic memorabilia and had to build a second-storey addition to his home to house his collection.

The 77-year-old actor acknowledges he had something of a love-hate relationship with the Star Trek franchise early on.

"What I eventually realized was not many people get the opportunity to have such a lasting impact on pop culture and a source of income for four and a half decades," he said. "I have friends who are much more talented, and they have struggled to have something to show for it." JIM TIMLICK/FOR METRO

Ford 'crack video' in police hands

Bombshell. Footage could go public amid court proceedings involving Toronto mayor's friend

JESSICA SMITH

Metro in Toronto

An associate of Toronto Mayor Rob Ford is heading to court Friday morning on an extortion charge that may give the public its best shot at seeing the infamous "crack video."

Toronto police Chief Bill Blair announced Thursday the force had recovered the video from a hard drive seized during "Project Traveler," a guns-and-drugs investigation, on June 13.

He said the video is "consistent" with media reports. The video allegedly shows the mayor, obviously impaired, smoking what appears to be crack cocaine and making homophobic and racist slurs," reports said.

Police technical experts recovered the video after it had been deleted from a hard drive and gave it to investigators on Oct. 29. As a result, Alexander (Sandro) Lisi, Ford's friend and occasional driver, was charged with extortion. Police accuse him of "extortive efforts to retrieve a recording" of the video since April.

Blair said the video will be submitted to court as evidence in this case, making it part of the public record. Media can request copies. However, if Lisi pleads guilty before evidence is introduced, the video may not be made public.

Staying put for now

Despite the pressure on Ford, municipal law makes no provision for his forced removal from office unless he's convicted and jailed for a criminal offence.

- "There's nothing we can do at this point," Ontario Municipal Affairs Minister Linda Jeffrey said.
- "The province has no power to remove anybody, and obviously we'd have to wait as the investigation unfolds as to next steps."

Blair also said there is more than one video, and he has seen them.

"There were several video files relevant to this investigation, and two videos that are particularly relevant to this investigation," said Blair.

His announcement came shortly after the release of partially redacted court documents pertaining to Lisi's arrest for trafficking on Oct. 1.

The documents show police tailed Ford, who called Lisi often and frequently met with him. Police observed Lisi passing plastic bags and envelopes to Ford.

According to the documents, 10 minutes before the Gawker story about the video was published online, Ford called Lisi. Over the next couple of days Lisi made a flurry of calls and texts, including to Fabio Basso, a resident of the "crack house" where the video was allegedly filmed, and to Mohamed Siad, who police identified as one of the people believed to be selling the video.

Clayton Ruby

Lawyer decries 'botched' probe

A renowned lawyer who failed to have Rob Ford ousted from office accused Toronto police on Thursday of deliberately giving the embattled mayor a pass on his alleged drug use and ties to accused and convicted traffickers.

Following police assertions they were now in possession of a video showing Ford appearing to smoke crack cocaine, Clayton Ruby was scathing about the investigation.

"The police have either ignored or overlooked all the evidence against Ford," Ruby told The Canadian Press.

"I've never seen such a botched investigation, and I've seen thousands."

Ruby called it "inexplicable" police never searched Ford's car or home, or wiretapped his phone. Under the law, police who witnessed suspicious "hand-to-hand" transactions would have been well within their rights to stop Ford's car, arrest him, and do a search — even without a warrant. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Trial. Witness says sex assault charges against archbishop are 'crazy'

A man who as a child made friends with an Orthodox archbishop says allegations that the cleric sexually assaulted two brothers almost 30 years ago are "crazy."

Jason Rodgers told court he was a 10-year-old living in Winnipeg's downtrodden north end when he first met Seraphim Storheim in 1985. Storheim befriended him and used to entertain children at his neighbourhood parish home, Rodgers said.

Children would hang out there, "sitting around, watching TV, running down the hall, playing games." Rodgers recalled Thursday. He said the acts being alleged against Storheim couldn't have happened.

"As long as I've known him, he's never been anything like that," Rodgers, 38, told Court of Queen's Bench Justice Christopher Mainella. "He was a good friend who talked to me about the troubles I was going through."

Court has already heard Storheim met two brothers when he was posted in London, Ont., and the boys were in their pre-teens. He is accused of sexually assaulting them in 1985 when they visited him on separate occasions at his home in Winnipeg. The men have testified Storheim walked around naked and asked them to touch him sexually.

Storheim has vehemently denied exposing himself or asking the boys to touch him.

He was arrested in 2010 after the brothers went to police.

Esther Juce, a friend of Storheim's since 1984, also told the judge that she couldn't believe the charges brought against the archbishop when she first heard about them.

"I was shocked and dismayed and incredulous," said Juce, the final witness called by the defence.

The 52-year-old choir director said she often saw Storheim with children at his parish home. Storheim was an affectionate man — hugging men, women and children alike, she said.

Juce said she never witnessed anything inappropriate. THE CANADIAN PRESS

City of Winnipeg opens new Aboriginal Relations Division

'True demand.' Mural artist said more opportunities needed

BERNICE PONTANILLA
bernice.pontanilla@metronews.ca

Bridging the gulf between the City of Winnipeg and its growing urban aboriginal population is the goal of the new Aboriginal Relations Division, said its manager Rhonda Forgues.

Forgues, who along with Mayor Sam Katz officially launched the division at its third-floor office in the administration building at city hall on Thursday, said what the city needed when it came to its aboriginal population was a "targeted focus."

"Making sure our processes are understandable, that information is getting out into the community to make sure ... aboriginal people coming into the city ... know that there is a place that they can come," said Forgues, adding about 8.8 per cent of the city's current workforce is aboriginal.

Katz said many of the initiatives through this division will be aimed at a younger demographic.

"If a young aboriginal person leaves the reserve and comes to our city with no education, no training, what hope do they have of what you and I would call a good life? The answer is next to none," said Katz.

"The fact is, whether you want to believe them or not, there are very special challenges facing these people

U of M researchers make ALS discovery

Breakthrough. New Lou Gehrig's research may lead to improved treatments for the disease

SHANE GIBSON
shane.gibson@metronews.ca

A team of researchers from the University of Manitoba has discovered how and why a mutated gene causes amyotrophic lateral sclerosis (ALS), and the research may lead to new treatments for the condition more commonly known as Lou Gehrig's disease.

The team of researchers led by Dr. Geoff Hicks, director of the U of M's regenerative-medicine program, found a mutation in a gene called TLS/FUS that stops cells from knowing when they've made enough protein — causing cells to become overloaded.

"It's like a bathtub that's filling and you can't turn it off anymore," explained Hicks of the findings published in the journal PLoS Genetics Thursday. "It's exciting, and the people that have reviewed our paper said in their comments to the editors that this really is opening up a whole new avenue of potentially finding new treatments for ALS."

While researchers have known for years that the buildup of extra proteins disrupts normal cell function in patients with ALS and leads to the cell death of the motor neuron, before Thursday they didn't know why.

People with ALS slowly lose function of their arms and legs and eventually the throat and diaphragm, and roughly 80 per cent of people diagnosed will die within two to five years.

Hicks told Metro the team has since created a small molecule that can be introduced into the cell to correct the error, and he's hopeful further research may lead to ALS patients living for as long as 20 years after diagnosis.

"That, I'm sure that would make a big difference to people," he said.

MP speaks out about safety for bus drivers

Recently reported events in Winnipeg and Ottawa involving passengers assaulting bus drivers had Liberal MP Ralph Goodale speaking on Parliament Hill Thursday about fast-tracking legislation that would apply tougher sentences to anyone convicted of attacking a transit worker.

Goodale said there is an urgent need to change the Criminal Code to protect this "vulnerable" group of workers in Canada, who see upwards of 2,000 assaults against them each year.

"This issue's not going away. If anything, the anecdotes would seem to indicate, sadly, it's getting worse," Goodale told Metro Thursday following a press conference in Ottawa.

On Oct. 16, the MP introduced Bill C-533, a private member's bill which calls for changes to the Criminal Code that would force judges to es-entially hand down harsher punishments for those convicted of committing any criminal offence against an on-duty transit worker.

Goodale said he believes the very nature of their work makes them vulnerable and the proposed legislation can prevent people from taking advantage of that vulnerability.

If passed, "the judge would be required as a rule to take into account the vulnerable nature of the victim's employment as an aggravating circumstance justifying a higher sentence," said Goodale.

Craig Watson, the head of Ottawa's public transit union ATU Local 279, also voiced his support of the bill on Parliament Hill. He told Metro Goodale's bill would send a strong message that a bus driver is not "a punching bag."

Goodale wants the federal government to make the bill a priority so that it can be debated sooner rather than later.

CTF wants traffic study near cloverleaf fire hall released in its entirety

The local chapter of the Canadian Taxpayers Federation is calling on the City of Winnipeg to release the results of a 2012 traffic study done before a fire hall was built on the cloverleaf at Portage Avenue and Route 90.

Colin Craig, Prairie director of the CTF, said if city officials want to rebuild trust following the Oct. 21 release of the fire halls audit, "they can start by releasing the full traffic study."

"If the city refuses to release the report it shows nothing has changed," said Craig in a press release.

"Hopefully the report shows no serious public safety concerns about building a fire hall in the middle of a cloverleaf."

Craig, who requested the study more than a year ago, has the backing of the Manitoba Ombudsman's office, which found that there's no reason to block the study's full release.

Only parts of the study were made available to the CTF, but the most important sections — the analysis and conclusion — have been withheld, added Craig. METRO

Party tensions set tone for Conservative convention in Alberta

Tough times for the Tories. MPs and delegates have begun to arrive in Calgary amid political controversy

A flood postponed their convention in the spring — now Conservatives are facing a deluge of political challenges as they gather in the party's heartland.

The ongoing Senate expenses scandal and allegations of a coverup at the most senior levels is expected to be a hot topic in the convention corridors, even if the upper chamber is not officially on the agenda.

The Conservative caucus and senior ranks have been wearied by the controversy. Some say they have felt broadsided by constant bursts of new information — including embattled Sen. Mike Duffy's latest revelation that the party paid $13,500 for his legal fees. That's in addition to the $90,000 the prime minister's chief of staff secretly gave to Duffy to repay contested living expenses.

But the roller-coaster ride in Ottawa hasn't appeared to put a damper on registrations for the convention.

MPs and delegates began streaming into the city Thursday, as registration opened at the Calgary stampede grounds — an area that was underwater during the June floods.

Kenyan women cry for justice

Rally protests teen's gang-rape. Police freed suspects after making them cut grass as punishment

Hundreds of women in Kenya are protesting after a teenager was allegedly gang-raped and the only punishment for the suspects was that they had to mow the police station lawn.

About 300 women marched through Kenya's capital on Thursday to protest the alleged rape of a 16-year-old girl publicly identified only as Liz.

The online activist group Avaaz says Liz was gang-raped in June and she is now wheelchair-bound. The group says police arrested the suspected perpetrators but only made them cut grass at the police station as punishment.

More than 1.3 million people have signed an Avaaz petition calling for the prosecution of the alleged rapists

The alleged attack

The girl was attacked and repeatedly raped after returning from her grandfather's funeral in June, according to BBC News.

- She was thrown, unconscious, into a nearly seven-metre-deep pit latrine and suffered broken bones and spinal injury, the report said.

Remains of 360 people dug from Bosnia grave

Forensic experts search for human remains at a mass grave in Tomasica, near the Bosnian town of Prijedor, on Thursday. AMEL EMRIC/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two decades after Serb soldiers conducted house-to-house searches in a campaign of ethnic killings in Bosnia, forensic scientists are digging up what could turn out to be the largest mass grave from the 1992-95 war.

So far, the remains of 360 people have been found at the Tomasica mass grave discovered in September near the northern town of Prijedor, far more than expected, authorities said Thursday. The number is expected to rise and could one day surpass the 629 bodies found at Crni Vrh in Srebrenica.

The Missing Persons' Institute said the Tomasica grave is linked to a secondary one found in 2003 about 10 kilometres away, where 373 bodies were extracted. Authorities believe the killers moved parts of the remains from one grave to the other to hide the crime. The bodies are of Bosniak and Croat men, women and children killed in their villages during the war. Most of the victims were killed in their villages but teams have also found bullets in the grave, which indicates this was also an execution site, prosecutor Eldar Jahic said.

Near the grave, Vahida Behlic, 51, was sobbing as she watched forensic experts carefully lifting bones from the site, where skeletons were piled on top of each other. She thinks one of the skeletons could be of her mother, who was 60 when Serb soldiers came, dragged her out of the basement and shot her in front of her house.

"I heard the story from a witness who survived because his own grandmother threw herself on him and covered him with her body," she said. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Euthanasia pioneer. Belgium considers giving children the right to die

In Belgium, where euthanasia is now legal for people over the age of 18, the government is considering extending it to children — something that no other country has done. The same bill would offer the right to die to adults with early dementia.

Advocates argue that euthanasia for children, with the consent of their parents, is necessary to give families an option in a desperately painful situation.

Opponents have questioned whether children can reasonably decide to end their own lives.

Tinderbox. Israel again attacks inside Syria aiming at Russian-made missiles: Officials Officials say Israeli warplanes attacked a military target inside Syria.

An Obama administration official confirmed the attack happened overnight Thursday but provided no details.

Another security official said that the attack occurred in the Syrian port city of Latakia and that the target was Russian-made SA-125 missiles.

The officials spoke on condition of anonymity.

At least twice earlier this year Israel launched airstrikes on shipments of missiles inside Syria.

Migrants perish in desert going to Algeria

Niger. On a perilous smuggling route, just south of the vast Sahara desert, 92 died when their vehicle was stranded

Authorities in Niger have recovered 92 bodies of migrants who died of thirst after the trucks they were travelling in broke down in a desolate no-man's-land at the foot of the Sahara desert.

The people were being smuggled last month along a well-established trafficking route used to move contraband, including people, from Niger to neighbouring Algeria, said Col. Garba Makido the governor of the Nigerian province of Agadez, south of where the bodies were found.

Officials were only alerted to the incident when a lone woman managed to stumble out of the desert earlier this month.

She was picked up by a passing car which took her to the city of Arlit, around 50 km south of where the first of the two trucks broke down.

For a new life

The tract of land that runs across the continent just south of the vast Sahara desert has for decades been the province of smugglers and criminals, including the local chapter of al-Qaida.

- Tens of thousands of West African immigrants attempting to reach Europe each year have tapped into this desolate route.
- They pay smugglers to ferry them across the ocean of sand in rickety trucks; many die.
- It took weeks for authorities to learn of the tragedy and to reach the site, where they found remains of 52 children and 33 women.

Graves are dug for the bodies of migrants who died of thirst in the desert north of Arlit, Niger. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Watchdog raps CSIS

Detained. Montreal man claims he was tortured by Sudanese intelligence officials during two periods of detention, but Canada says it knew nothing of the alleged abuse

Canada's spy agency inappropriately disclosed personal and classified information about a Montreal man while he was imprisoned in Sudan, says a federal watchdog.

In its annual report tabled Thursday, the body that reviews the activities of the Canadian Security Intelligence Service also says CSIS reported inaccurate and exaggerated information to partner agencies about Abofian Abdelrazik's case.

Abdelrazik, 51, was arrested but not charged during a 2003 visit to see his ailing mother in Sudan.

While in Sudanese custody, he was interrogated by CSIS about suspected extremist links.

In its report, the Security Intelligence Review Committee found no indication that CSIS had asked Sudanese authorities to arrest or detain Abdelrazik.

Days after Abdelrazik's second release from prison in July 2006, his name appeared on a United Nations Security Council blacklist that prevented him from flying back to Canada.

Abdelrazik, who has four children, finally returned to Montreal in June 2009. That same month, the Federal Court of Canada concluded CSIS was complicit in his 2003 detention.

Abdelrazik is suing both the federal government and former foreign affairs minister Lawrence Cannon. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Moving on. Snowden has new job at Russian website

Anatoly Kucherena, a lawyer for former NSA systems analyst Edward Snowden, says his client has found a technical support job at a Russian website.

Kucherena told the RIA Novosti news agency Thursday that Snowden starts his new job on Friday. Kucherena declined to name the company that has hired Snowden but says it's a major Russian website.

Snowden was granted asylum in Russia in August after being stuck at a Moscow airport for more than a month after flying there from Hong Kong. His whereabouts in Russia remain secret.

The 30-year-old faces espionage charges in the U.S. for uncovering a mass surveillance scheme at the National Security Agency.

The dream of lazy people everywhere. Amazon set to deliver groceries to you

Online retailer Amazon is taking on supermarkets by delivering food directly to Canadians' doorsteps.

The retail giant, which built its business selling books and entertainment through the mail, launched its new grocery category Thursday, in what's certain to be an intensifying battle between grocers.

Amazon says the initial selection includes 15,000 non-perishable grocery products, like coffee, cereal and baby food, from a variety of brands such as Campbell, Nestle, Pepsi and Kellogg.

While the launch doesn't include perishables like milk, fruits or vegetables, it's a strong sign that Amazon wants to make inroads in an area of the food business that hasn't been tapped by any company in Canada outside of major cities.

The strategic move will make it tougher for the country's biggest grocers like Loblaw's, Sobeys and Metro, who have been focused in the last few years on competing against U.S. big-box retailers like Target and Walmart.

Goodfella turned chef: The kitchen consigliere

Take the cannoli.

Instead of swimming with the fishes, Angelo Lutz is serving up fish dishes, and other classic Italian fare

When he was on trial for racketeering, Angelo Lutz denied the Mob's existence, but now he's using his past in organized crime to promote his new restaurant, the Kitchen Consigliere.

Lutz is using some unsavoury associations as he attempts a transformation from prisoner to opinionated celebrity chef.

Last week, he moved his operations from an 11-table restaurant to one three times as large on a prominent corner of the hip, foodie-friendly Philadelphia suburb of Collingswood.

Lutz, 49, grew up in South Philadelphia, where food was a big part of his life. According to federal prosecutors and a jury, he also did some bad along the way.

What exactly is it?

This particular species forms a colony in the shape of a chain like a helix. I gathered this sample from the North Sea by the Dutch coast.

Why is taking photographs of plankton so important?

I'm basically shining a light on a world that we know very little about, but one that is so important to our existence. Diatoms produce almost half of the Earth's oxygen through photosynthesis in our oceans. What's more, diatoms and other plankton are the foundation of the food chain in the natural world. Their role in our lives cannot be understated, but since diatoms seem invisible to us, they are tragically beyond our perception.

You're a die-hard diatom fan ... Yes, they are so wonderful and bizarre; with 25,000 different species of them, with no two individuals exactly alike, diatoms are an endless source of inspiration. This is the basis from which all life started. METRO

Synopsis

When Tim Lake (Domhnall Gleeson) turned 21 his father (Bill Nighy) lets him in on a family secret — he comes from a long line of time travelers. With visions of inter-dimensional travel in his head he does what any 21-year-old might do — use his unique ability to get a girlfriend. The object of his affections is Mary (Rachel McAdams), but to win her over he'll have to use his special gift to hone his Casanova skills. As they live their lives together he comes to discover that not everything can be solved with a quick trip back in time.

RICHARD CROUSE AND MARK BRESLIN

Running out of Time

About Time. Rachel McAdams continues to take on time travel movies but the latest seems to hit the right note with a sentimental approach

Richard: Mark, this is the kind of movie critics will call sappy and sentimental. They'll bash it because it wears its heart on its sleeve, which is exactly the reason I liked it.

After The Time Traveler's Wife it's time Rachel McAdams got a time travel romance right. It's a silly premise but for me the idea wasn't about the time travel, but the lessons Tim learns from the time travel about life and happiness. What did you think?

Mark: Richard, as you know, I am no fun. No fun at all. So I spent most of the movie looking for paradoxes in the physics of the time travel conceit. Like all time travel movies, it sets up arbitrary rules, and then breaks them all over the place.

The movie features two of the worst haircuts in the history of cinema, and a romance I didn't really care about. But there's another deeper movie in there, which is a movie about fathers and sons, and I liked that part very much. Sentimental? Yes, but I felt that part of the movie worked better than its rom-com components. Of course, it could have been the haircuts.

RC: I didn't actually care much about the romance angle or the time travel. I was drawn to the film because of Domhnall Gleeson's charming and slightly goofy performance.

If John Hughes had made British films he would have loved this guy. He does have a bad haircut, but I thought he was a charming, if unlikely, leading man. He has a way with a line and I felt there was a real arc to his character. He literally grows up and becomes a man on screen, which is something you don't see in rom-coms very often.

MB: True enough, although I always thought there should be a law barring gingers from appearing in television and film.

I liked a lot of the scenes in the movie, especially one set in one of those noir restaurants, where you eat in total darkness. It's a literal blind date, and a nice twist on "meeting cute." Bill Nighy is wonderful in the movie, as he always is, and Rachel McAdams does a good version of cute, although she looked about five years too old for the part.

But then Gleeson would go into a closet and ball his fists and ... some of the goodwill was lost for me.

RC: Richard E. Grant's three-minute cameo is almost worth the price of admission. He has one of the best reaction shots I've seen this year.

MB: And a similar hairline as Nighy. Hmmm....

Thor: The Dark World. Tom Hiddleston is OK with not reprising his role in the next Avengers because he's busy with other projects

EHRBAR
Metro World News in Hollywood

Tom Hiddleston has made a name for himself as Thor's brother and main nemesis, with Thor: the Dark World marking his third big-screen turn as the Norse god of mischief. Hiddleston even showed up to Comic-Con this summer in character to delight fans during the Marvel presentation, though his character won't be appearing in Avengers: the Age of Ultron. But that's fine by Hiddleston, who has plenty of other projects to keep him busy.

What was your honest reaction when Joss Whedon told you Loki would not be in the second Avengers film?

My honest reaction was, "That's fine." I never wanted to overstay my welcome, and I've had such a good run with the character. I've enjoyed it so much. It was expected, to be honest, that Joss told me he wasn't going to put me in it. So yeah, my honest reaction was, "All right. Maybe it's time for me to play a few characters who don't have long black hair."

Between your turns at playing Loki, you've also been working in some independent films and a ton of Shakespeare. How do you approach jumping between so many diverse projects?

I honestly love doing them all; it's really true. I get so many different things from each. I've never wanted to impose limits on my work. Actors make the best choices they can in the moment, and quite often the way the picture is assembled, it looks like there's been some grand master plan, but actually it's all very accidental. I just have a genuine love for it all. I suppose I've always wanted to be able to jump between things. I never wanted to be just the Shakespeare guy and I certainly never wanted to be just the superhero guy or even the indie kid. I should be so lucky, frankly, that I get to do any of these things. I think the variety really keeps me sharp. I had a day between getting back from Tangier (for Jim Jarmusch's Only Lovers Left Alive) and starting on Thor 2. The head shift was very quick. I finished with Tilda (Swinton); I flew back from Morocco; I put my clothes in

● ● ● ● ●

A ridiculous series of events sends Reggie (Wilson) on a mission to stop his fellow fowl from being served at the first Thanksgiving and thus save millions of birds from becoming the centre-piece of the traditional meal for the rest of history. One should expect a certain level of unreality from a film about time-travelling turkeys. But Free Birds is so far-fetched and implausible that it's practically unwatchable. Even comedic favourites Wilson and Poehler can't breathe any life into the absurd plot.

REGAN REID

Action

Ender's Game

Director. Gavin Hood

Stars. Asa Butterfield,
Harrison Ford

● ● ● ● ●

According to Orson Scott Card's hit novel Ender's Game, the future of mankind rests on turning kids into extraterrestrial killing machines and cadet commander Harrison Ford has his sights set on one conflicted adolescent saviour. While the drama is solemnly serious and short on fun, the performances (especially young Asa Butterfield) are decent and the effects entertaining enough to likely keep many kiddies captivated. For the rest of us, Ender's Game is simply played out.

STEVE GOW

Comedy

Last Vegas

Director. Jon Turteltaub

Stars. Robert De Niro, Michael Douglas, Morgan Freeman and Kevin Kline

● ● ● ● ●

Take every cliché about ageing Lotharios, blend in barroom brawls, boobs and booze, add four ageing Academy Award winners doing embarrassing things and you have Last Vegas. The Flatbush Four childhood pals reunite in Vegas to celebrate one's marriage to a 32-year-old, but a woman of a more appropriate vintage (Mary Steenburgen) enters the picture, dividing the group. Cardboard characters deliver lines that sound hollow. Considering the talents involved it's a shame.

DAY
Sunday at C4

AARON ASHMORE

BRUCE BOXLEITNER

First time at C4? Things you should know!

1. Virtual Lines If the line is too long, you'll be given a ticket with the celebrity's name and a number on it. Check by the VIP table for which celebs are taking up to which ticket numbers. It'll look like this on the whiteboard: RON PERLMAN - TICKETS 0 - 250. If you have a ticket with a number between 0 and 250, you can stand in line at that time. If you have a number like 302 for instance, you can walk around the con, check out some other things and check the board in a half an hour or so to see if your number group is being called. Note: As a VIP, you are zippered into the existing line, so you can go up anytime you want, and you'll go after the next person in line.

3. Programming! You can buy a ticket to guarantee your seat at any of the celebrity panels you're interested in. See the Programming Tickets Desk on the second floor outside the Theatre. You are not obligated to purchase a ticket, and if there are seats left, we will do an open call once everyone with a ticket has been seated at the front.

4. Weapons! Will be checked, and marked with a red zip tie if they're good to go. You cannot bring anything that can be shot! (bb gun, airsoft gun, paintball gun, etc.) ALL swords must be sheathed and peace bonded, but can be unsheathed for costume contest performances only. Please make arrangements with the Costume Contest Coordinator at the Costume Alliance Booth, C9.

7. When in doubt, find someone in a snazzy red C4 vest or a White and Red Jersey to direct you!

Reflektor. Album's not quite on fire this time

Arcade Fire's new album has been met with mixed reviews.

ERIC KAYNE/THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The reviews are in, and Arcade Fire's sprawling new opus Reflektor has critics deeply divided.

The 75-minute, two-disc followup to the Montreal band's Grammy-winning hit The Suburbs has received some raves, but perhaps not the near-universal praise of their past work.

On the positive side, influential music website Pitchfork — one of Arcade Fire's earliest champions — lavished the album with a 9.2 review, concluding that Reflek- tor is "an album that dares to be great, and remarkably succeeds."

One didn't have to look far for a negative counterbalance, however.

In a shrugging three-out-of-five-star review, the Guardian criticized the record's length and ultimately declared that Reflektor "sounds like the work of a band that have plenty of good ideas, but increasingly can't tell them from their bad ones — or won't be told."

Blue Rodeo reboots with new album to stay in the game

Coming up. The band will embark on a two-month Canadian tour in the new year, hitting all 10 provinces before wrapping on March 2 in Montreal

Blue Rodeo's last release, the sprawling double album The Things We Left Behind, was a critical and commercial success that returned the Toronto alt-country originals to platinum status for the first time since 2002. Creatively they were riding high — and yet, behind the scenes, it felt as though they could be nearing the end.

Co-frontman Greg Keelor's hearing issues had only been growing more severe, and performing live was such a painful chore that he couldn't be around volume at all. In concert, he might as well have been relegated to special-guest status, limited as he was to materializing for a few acoustic songs scattered about the set.

"That was getting really bad," the band's other mastermind, Jim Cuddy, said in a recent interview seated next to Keelor. "It was such a bad version of the band."

So, they changed the band — drastically. Almost four years elapsed between that album and this week's release of their rich latest, In Our Nature. That's the longest gap between studio albums in Blue Rodeo's quarter-century-plus history.

At Cuddy's suggestion, the band swapped stage monitors for in-ear monitors that would be easier on Keelor's battered ears. They made Colin Cripps an official member on electric guitar, so that Keelor could play only acoustic and sing. They stood in a different formation onstage, to keep Keelor away from the sources of the loudest noise.

And, Cuddy says, it fundamentally changed the sound of the band's naturalistic new set of tunes.

"I think it's one of our best-sounding records," Cuddy says. "What we intended, that's what it sounds like. It's kind of woolly and comfortable. And I think it's got a lot of strength."

Magic and loss. Patti Smith reflects on her late friend, Lou Reed

Patti Smith shared her thoughts on the loss of Lou Reed. CONTRIBUTED

Patti Smith is remembering her friend, inspiration and fellow poet-musician Lou Reed, who died Sunday at age 71.

Smith tells The Associated Press the first time she saw Reed in person was in 1970. She says he and the Velvet Underground were performing at the Manhattan club Max's Kansas City. She says she made it her business to study him.

Smith says she is pleased by the global impact of Reed's passing and by the stories of how his songs affected people's lives.

Smith cited Pale Blue Eyes as a personal favourite. She says the ballad reminded her of her late husband, guitarist Fred "Sonic" Smith.

She also praised Reed's romantic Perfect Day. She sings it often in concert and finds herself moved when audiences join in.

Lou Reed wasn't perfect, but he was a 'treasure'

Death. A week after his death, musical icon's Canadian partner tells of how he was a misunderstood man

More than 40 years ago, Lou Reed sat on the floor of Bob Ezrin's house on Summerhill Avenue in Toronto, strumming an acoustic guitar and eagerly drawing up plans for the album that would become Berlin.

This past Sunday, Ezrin was about to hop a flight home from Los Angeles and spent the time mapping out a trip to New York next month. With considerable enthusiasm, he jotted down a scheduling note to himself: "Breakfast with Lou."

And then he boarded the plane, accessed the on-board wireless Internet, and saw that Reed — the massively influential Velvet Underground songwriter — had died at age 71.

"I almost fell out of my seat," Ezrin recalled in a telephone interview Monday. "I was a captive for five hours. All I wanted to do was run up and down the aisles screaming. By the time I got here, I was pretty drained."

"The world," he continues, "has lost one of its great artistic treasures."

Lou Reed was a misunderstood character, his writing partner says. CONTRIBUTED

Since Reed's death, a mourning music community has hailed the counter-cultural icon's limitless musical legacy, his intuitive gift for inhabiting the minds of outcasts and outsiders and his influential lack of regard for boundaries of gender or sexual orientation. Other chief features of most remembrances also focus on his irascible personality and brazen drug use.

But Reed, Hearn says, was misunderstood.

"Anyone who actually spent a little bit of time with him would see what a caring, sweet person he was," said Hearn.

"He had people coming at him from all directions all his life. So he found a way to deal with that and to keep doing what he loves; to protect his art and to protect who he was."

"Maybe he was grumpy some days. But he's human. And no one's perfect."

Aziz Ansari muses on marriage and babies

Comedy. The Parks and Recreation star laments how texting has changed the dating game on his new Netflix special

Beneath the wisecracks and snarky jabs, comic Aziz Ansari admits he's a romantic at heart. The baby-faced stand-up star says he's fascinated by how we connect with each other in this era of texting and Instagram, but especially so when it comes to love.

Finding that special someone is the focus of his new Netflix special Buried Alive, where he muses on the increasing pressures he feels to settle down, raise a family and, well, grow up.

"I'm not like totally consumed by it, thinking about it all the time, but it is kind of interesting," Ansari says of feeling the clock ticking now that he's 30.

"You start getting old and you don't even realize it. It's like, 'People my age are popping kids out! That's pretty crazy.'"

During a recent stop in Toronto, Ansari says he wrote this material while watching a lot of his friends get married and have kids, bringing into sharp focus his own impending adulthood.

Filmed live at the Merriam Theater in Philadelphia, Buried Alive features Ansari musing on marriage proposals, raising children, arranged marriage, and the whole terrifying notion of till-death-do-us-part. It's a markedly more mature look at life than his other comedy specials Intimate Moments for a Sensual Evening and Dangerously Delicious, he agrees, noting that it's part of his own conscious evolution as a writer.

"My favourite musicians and artists are ones that change and evolve over the course of their albums," says the Parks and Recreation co-star, who filmed and paid for the special himself to be sure he had complete control over the final product.

"I hate it and I think all artists hate it when people are like, 'Oh, well, this is what that guy does.' You know, 'That's his thing,' whatever it is — talking about my cousin Harris or you know (cocky alter ego) Randy, or whatever — and I like all that stuff but you don't want to repeat yourself. I was like, 'Let me do something different and not do any of the stuff I've done in the past.'"

Ansari bemoans the radical ways technology has changed how people communicate, especially the simple act of dating.

"It used to be you'd have to work up courage and call someone on the phone and speak to them and, you know, it was a much different thing than just like (pretends to text on a phone): 'Hey, what are you doing tonight?'"

Never the same again

The Good Wife. Julianna Margulies' character has transformed along with the series

Last Sunday's episode, aptly titled, Hitting the Fan, basically blew up the series (which airs Sunday nights on Global and CBS). If you haven't seen it yet and it is sitting in your PVR deck, skip the next few paragraphs.

Will (Josh Charles) learns of the plan by Alicia (Julianna Margulies) and Cary (Matt Czuchy) to leave Lockhart Gardner and take half the clients with them.

Hurt by this betrayal by his old friend and former lover, Will acts swiftly to have Alicia, Cary and several associates thrown out of the law office and a vicious tug-of-war over clients ensues. Lawyers fight lawyers in court and even Alicia's reconciled husband, newly elected Illinois governor Peter Florrick (Chris Noth), gets into the act, killing plans to make senior law partner Diane Lockhart (Christine Baranski) a Supreme Court judge.

"It feels like it can never go back," said Noth, one of several main cast members who met with reporters earlier this week at a press conference near the series' Brooklyn, N.Y. sound stages. "It's brave of them to do it," he continued, referring to the series' husband-and-wife co-creators Robert King and Michelle King.

Margulies said her character

is now in full "warrior mode." It's a complete transformation from how Alicia began on the series, rocked by her husband's infidelities and stumbling back into the workforce.

"She's always been a dedicated lawyer and an incredibly smart, well-thought-out human being," said Margulies, who looked in warrior mode as she sat before press in a floor-length crimson overcoat fanning out to reveal a jet-black dress. New Alicia now mirrors ruthless and ambitious Will, "and that's going to be incredibly fun to watch on the show."

The fallout continues this Sunday on the next episode, The Next Day.

Now that Alicia and Will are on opposite teams, "they both realize they are made of the same cloth and she learned from the best," said Margulies. She said this new competition "strangely has taken on a sexier feel than a love scene. Each can read the other's mind and they're always one step ahead of each other."

Margulies for her parts, said her character risks turning off fans this season with her warrior stance. Up until now Alicia the single mom has been generally admired for her judgement and character.

How long she stays at her husband's side is anybody's guess. THE CANADIAN PRESS

A global helltrek, just for the fun of it

Worst. Person. Ever.

Douglas Coupland's new novel takes readers on a boozy, sex-filled romp with a foul-mouthed cameraman — earnest literary critics, try to relax

matt.laforge@metronews.ca

Douglas Coupland is Canada's official Cool Guy. He earned the title not only because he creates cool things — books of fiction, reportage, and biography; cultural commentary; visual art; sculpture; furniture — but also because, unlike, say, Drake or those guys who started VICE magazine, he plies his various trades here, in Canada, without apologizing for where he lives.

He simply, humbly, writes, sculpts, designs and collates from his base in Vancouver, telling us about our country and about the world as it's currently lived in. He works hard and produces material constantly. It's a fortunate thing that one of our culture's closest and most versatile observers is also one of its exemplars.

Coupland's newest novel, his 14th, is Worst. Person. Ever., a lewd, rude globe-trotting picaresque that follows the eponymous scoundrel, a singularly profane television cameraman named Raymond Gunt, on a calamitous sex-, booze- and four-letter-word-fuelled hell-trek from London to L.A. to Honolulu to Micronesia.

Raymond, described on the book jacket as "a living, walking, talking, hot steaming pile of pure id," chases chemical and sexual pleasure with abandon, leers unself-consciously at every woman in his field of vision and frequently fantasizes about literally enslaving his fellow man. If nothing else, it's the perfect gag gift for the clergyperson on your Christmas list. I recently talked to Coupland, via email, about the book.

A theme in your fiction that goes all the way back to generation X and that is present in Worst. Person. Ever. is the human need to turn life into story. What is the difference, if any, between telling yourself stories about your life and telling yourself lies?

I think in this case it's the difference between how others see you and how you really are. Self-delusion is always funny.

Raymond Gunt tells the reader that he's charitable, understanding, worldly, open-minded and peace-loving. But his conduct, to put it mildly, suggests otherwise. Why do you think he — an impulse-driven guy who lives to party and get laid — claims so insistently that he's broad-minded and selfless?

Simple: He thinks it will somehow get him laid.

You tweeted a link to the Guardian's negative review of W.P.E., saying that the review's author "took the bait." What did you mean by that?

She took it at face value and actually thought the book was being put forth as literature — and then reviewed it as such. I mean, how fricking clueless can you be? It's a fun risqué read and seeks to be nothing more.

Much of your past work is breezy and funny but, at least as I read it, intends to rise to the level of serious art. What made you want to do something with lower esthetic stakes?

Fun! No, seriously: fun. Really. Fun.

Speaking of fun — W.P.E. has a lot of cursing and locker-roomish sex talk and a decent amount of violence. Are there any people who you think shouldn't read the book?

Not my call. But in the same way that you probably wouldn't leave martinis lying around your house, you probably might not leave W.P.E. around either.

Who's the worst person ever in real life?

That I've met in person? The person who Raymond is modelled on — an English cameraman at a shoot I did in Los Angeles in 1993.

More online

- Read the rest of the interview — including Coupland's takes on '80s music, Alice Munro, literary experimentalism and the likelihood that the world as we know it is ending — on metronews.ca.

The characters in W.P.E. spend huge amounts of time travelling in airplanes. There's a lot of flying in planes in your books, and you've written essays about the unpleasantness of air travel. Make three recommendations for the immediate improvement of air passengers' lives.

1. Free in-flight Wi-Fi.
2. Puppies bandied about freely.
3. Public flogging for people who bring idiotically large bags on as carry-on who then act all wounded when they're called on it.

David Arquette could use a top-notch PR handler right about now

David Arquette drunk-dialed the Howard Stern Show last night, and wow did he say some stuff. Highlights included backhanded compliments to Hitler.

"Listen, listen, listen — I've gotta say something on the N-word later — but Hitler played the game very well. He did. Listen, yeah, he played his game very well. He convinced a lot of people to play his f-king evil game. He played the game really well, but he was playing the wrong game."

Luckily he didn't manage to make it to whatever he had to say about the N-word, but he did happen to refer to Coco, his daughter with Courteney Cox, as his "first kid."

Wait, does that mean he had other kids? When? David didn't answer when Howard asked him, just "sort of wheezed and mumbled, giving no direct answer," as HowardStern.com puts it.

Arquette seemed dimly aware that things weren't going so hot. "Listen I'm going to be brutally honest with you and if that means tomorrow I have to get sober, I will get sober. I've been going on this whole Mayan thing lately. ... Are you with me? So, let's play the right game."

Yes, let's. The non-Hitler game. And in Arquette's case, maybe the "just seltzer water for me, thanks," game.

SAKURA REBORN AS FAR EAST EXPRESS

A favourite Japanese restaurant in south Winnipeg has been reborn as a sweeping Asian culinary experience.

The Far East Express Asian Cuisine and Lounge, formerly Sakura Japanese Restaurant, has added Thai, Chinese, Vietnamese, and Singapore cuisine to an extensive menu.

Besides a full dinner menu that includes genuine northern Chinese selections, a lunch buffet now boasts sushi and dim sum, as well as traditional Thai and Chinese items.

"Customers don't have to go downtown for Thai or dim sum, we have it in south Winnipeg," says Lisa Chu, who operated Sakura for 13 years.

Chu says she felt it was important to extend beyond Japanese fare after the influx of sushi restaurants over the last decade.

She brought in partners with expertise in a diversity of Asian cuisine, and brought her own knowledge and love of Thai food to the table. "People are crazy about Thai food," she says.

New co-owner John Guan counts himself among those people. "We make very good pad Thai and tom-yum and pho noodle soup," Guan says. "Really excellent."

Guan expects the affordability of Far East Express will grow the business further, especially during lunchtime. A daily combo special of fried rice, mixed vegetables, and sesame chicken is just $4.99, while fried rice or noodles with any two items is only $5.99.

The buffet, with 20-plus items of dim sum, sushi, Thai and Chinese food and soups, is $9.99.

Takeout business has been brisk since menus were distributed in the Linden Woods area, Guan says.

The restaurant, which sits 100, still has its Japanese-style private dining room that sits 15 at a one-piece wooden table. And with the new name comes a newly built lounge where guests can enjoy a drink, VLTs, and free late night karaoke.

Far East Express Asian Cuisine and Lounge, 1765E Kenaston Blvd., is at the south end of the Linden Ridge Shopping Centre located east of Kenaston and just north of Scurfield Boulevard.

PICK A FRESH AND HEALTHY GIFT IDEA

EDIBLE ARRANGEMENTS

If you are looking for a fresh gift you can't get much fresher than fresh fruit bouquets.

Whether it is a holiday gift, birthday or anniversary gift, or someone deserves a "just because," Edible Arrangements has a wide variety of beautifully arranged, custom, fresh fruit bouquets for all occasions.

"We are still a bit of a 'special gift' secret here in Winnipeg," Colin Elias says.

"But we're trying to change that."

Elias and his wife, Kyla, took over the two Edible Arrangements locations in Winnipeg earlier this year. The enterprising couple are proud of their original, healthy product, and excited to share it with Winnipeggers.

"People are always looking to send something new, fresh, and original," Colin Elias says. "What's fresher, and healthier, than fruit?"

With two locations in Winnipeg, at 756

Pembina Highway and 3 Reenders Dr., Edible Arrangements provides customers across the city with a delicious take on gift giving. Bouquets, gift baskets, fresh fruit smoothies, and chocolate dipped fruit are also available.

For your next celebration or social event, consider swinging by the Edible Arrangements location nearest you and picking up something fresh.

Or visit ediblearrangements.ca to see what it can do for you.

RELISH FINE FOOD, FRIENDS AT FOX & HOUNDS

TASTE FAMOUS MENU

In 1928, The Hotel News described the newly built St. James Hotel's beer parlor — known today as the Fox & Hounds Tavern — as a "social centre wherein one may, with ease and comfort, pass a quiet hour with a neighbour."

That's still true, but unlike 1928 customers can now relish the comfort of a Wolf Hound burger, a six-ounce homemade beef patty surrounded by a bun of two grilled cheese sandwiches (Monterey Jack and cheddar and bacon) served with caramelized onions, battered pickles and Guinness mustard.

"It's the one that will make us famous," says Fox & Hounds Tavern manager Lee Poworoznik of the pub's several hound-themed burgers.

The Fox is already famous for its in-house breaded chicken wings — just $6 per pound during happy hour. Wing saucers and seasonings are also prepared in-house, including the customer favourite salt and pepper — a secret recipe by Poworoznik's friend Moose.

East Coast Fridays are highlighted by beer-battered fish and chips for $7. Up to 40 pounds of haddock — delivered and battered fresh each week — sell out on the Friday-only offering.

The Fox prepares food late into the night. For more information, please visit foxandhoundstavern.com.

Diwali fave will light up your taste buds

Palak Paneer. Puréed spinach, yogurt and, for a local twist, Canadian paneer cheese make this dish a nutritional delight

Diwali, a five-day festival of lights originating in India and celebrated around the world, will begin Sunday.

To mark the victory of good over evil, revellers light lanterns around the home, set off fireworks outside and create design patterns called rangoli on the floor using coloured powders or sand.

Food also plays an important role with families coming together to enjoy a savoury meal and share sweets.

To join in the celebration, make a simple and quick version of Palak Paneer, glowing with the warm, spicy flavours of cumin, coriander and chili powder. It cooks up quickly and pairs with a side of warm naan bread or Basmati rice,

1. In a large, deep skillet, heat butter and oil over medium-high heat until butter melts. Add onions and garlic; sauté about 2 minutes or until tender.

Stir in coriander, chili powder and cumin; sauté 30 seconds or until fragrant; stirring well to prevent spices from burning.

2. Stir in puréed spinach, yogurt and salt; reduce heat to medium-low and cook covered for 10 minutes or until it starts to bubble. Stir in paneer; cook covered 6 minutes or until paneer softens and is cooked through. Give it a final stir and serve warm. DAIRYGODNESS.CA

Ingredients

- 2 tbsp (30 ml) butter
- 1 tbsp (15 ml) vegetable oil
- 1 medium onion, finely chopped
- 3 garlic cloves, minced
- 1 tsp (5 ml) ground coriander
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) chili powder
- 1/2 tsp (2 ml) ground cumin
- 1 package (300 g) frozen spinach, thawed and puréed
- 1/2 cup (125 ml) plain yogurt whisked until smooth
- Salt to taste
- 12 oz (350 g) paneer, cut into bite-sized pieces (about 2 cups/500 ml)

Do you pooh-pooh Australian table wines? Though offering some of the wine world's most popular brands, juice from Down Under became repetitive. There is good news. This time last year, I was on a three-week Aussie odyssey and had my glass filled with mind-blowing wines that are arriving in Canada.

South Australia's McLaren Vale has perplexed me. Best known for its fuller-bodied reds, I've found many of them lacking in that punch of flavour that makes a good wine great.

I'm betting its wine-makers recognized that. On my tour, I found an invigorated region and was soon populating my tasting notebook with the words "exciting" and "innovative."

Chapel Hill 2011 Parson's Nose Shiraz ($19.99) is a perfect example of this new wave flowing from McLaren Vale. Named for an ironstone chapel built on the winery's property in 1865, it's an old school shiraz with a thick, plummy body and black, anise spice finish that makes it ideal for a juicy steak, or anything up-front and beefy.

Update without throwing your cash down the drain

Decor. If you can't afford to replace retro fixtures, decorate around them

Bathrooms covered in outdated tile with coloured sinks and bathtubs can be an eyesore for many homeowners, but instead of spending money gutting and renovating, the space can be updated by combining modern design and personal tastes.

When clients approach Victoria interior designer Nicole Scott about updating their washrooms, she said they are often tired of living in a room that represents a previous owner's or tenant's style.

"It is usually that people have said to me that there is this oppressive feeling of it being someone else's tastes and they want to change the feeling of it," she said.

Unlike larger rooms in a home, bathroom redesigns — as long as major fixtures aren't being moved — can be tackled by the homeowner.

Homeowners may have to develop their design around larger items in the bathroom that because of budget can't be removed, Scott noted.

"I think that the first thing people need to figure out is what is the overall feeling or style they want to achieve and then you can pick all of your colours and finishes based on that," she said. "If you live in an older home and like more traditional style you can pick fixtures and go in that direction."

"For tenants in an apartment who aren't able to change very much you may want to go with the retro feel of the tiles you can't change, and run with that."

Scott said even though washrooms can have limited wall space it's a great option to use unusual and interesting visuals. "One of the things I'm obsessed with right now is vintage soap labels," said Scott. "On eBay I just ordered some for myself and a client. We have these great vintage soap labels

Replacing old bathroom fixtures may not be in the budget, but you can still update the remaining decor — in this case, a shade and hanging lights amp up the retro theme, while a fresh colour palette keeps it contemporary. ISTOCK that you can frame inexpensively and put two or three on a wall. THE CANADIAN PRESS

Storage

A cure for the multi-season closet

CHARLES THE BUTLER

With fall weather in full force, it's high time to change over your closet from summer to winter.

People often ask me where they're supposed to put all of their off-season things. Without a storage solution, many of us just keep struggling along with a closet that's overflowing with both our warm and cool-weather clothes — and so we curse every time we need to get dressed.

What are we to do? Here are some great solutions that I've used in both small apartments and large homes.

- I fill old suitcases with off-season clothing and put them under the bed, in a guest closet or in the garage — covered with a tarp to keep the dust off — until I need the clothing again.
- A decorative armoire, chest of drawers or a trunk being used as a coffee table are all great off-season storage solutions.
- If you have the space, an unused basement, empty kids' room or attic is great. I like to simply hang my clothes on a rack — sometimes called a hostess rack — and cover them with a white cotton sheet to keep the dust off. It's really the simplest way if you have the luxury of space.
- Lastly, there are great vacuum-sealer bags that you can buy. You fill them with clothes, then use your vacuum cleaner to suck the air out of the bag to reduce the volume. Once they're deflated, it becomes much easier to find places to store them all around your home. Just don't forget where you put them!

So there you go. I promise that if you store your off-season clothes elsewhere, your closet will be a much more enjoyable experience every day when you go to get dressed.

Spend vs. save

- There are areas where Scott said it's worth spending the money. For example, even though there are products that are marketed as being suitable to cover laminate countertops, Scott said she would never paint a counter top.

CHANGING DOWNTOWN'S SKYLINE

A first-of-its-kind development coming to downtown Winnipeg will change the city's skyline and set a new standard for architectural and design excellence.

The stunning glass tower of the $200-million-plus mixed-use project will soar above the downtown cityscape and will be the tallest free-standing structure between Calgary and Toronto. The development, by MADY and Fortress Real Developments on Graham Avenue between Smith and Garry streets, will include as many as 300-plus residential suites, a 35,000-square-foot second-floor grocery store, office and retail space, and indoor parking. It will truly be a place where people can live, work and play.

It will replace a surface parking lot in the heart of downtown at 245 Graham Ave., and will have frontage on three streets, Garry Street, Smith Street and Graham Avenue. Initial plans call for retail space to face all three streets, a major thoroughfare and for a heated Rapid Transit stop to be incorporated into base of the development

Although it's currently known as LiveWorkPlay Winnipeg, the developers invited Manitoba residents to provide the name for the landmark development, currently in the pre-development stage. Residents of Manitoba were invited to submit their suggestions in a contest to find a name for the project that concluded Friday. The name will be chosen by a panel of judges and announced in the coming weeks with the winner receiving a cheque for $3,000.

At a press conference earlier this year to announce the project, Jawad Rathore, CEO and president of Fortress Real Developments, and Charles Mady, CEO of MADY, said the building's architecture will be "iconic," designed by award-winning Kirkor Architects, and it will become the postcard shot for downtown Winnipeg. The development has the blessing of Mayor Sam Katz, who said it fulfils his dream to take downtown surface parking lots and turn them into spaces that offer residential, retail, commercial and parking opportunities.

Condo residents in the development will be able to access a wealth of services, shops, dining and entertainment options within minutes of their suites, and won't have to leave the complex for many of them. A grocery store, restaurant and other businesses and services will be included in the development's retail component, as well as connection to the city's

In the condo complex itself, residents will enjoy exclusive amenities, including a fitness studio and rooftop Sky Lounge.

Winnipeg's downtown is undergoing an exciting revitalization, with more than $900 million invested or committed to 140 projects. A new initiative will see the downtown area around Portage Avenue divided into four districts — the University District, Retail District, the Commercial District, and the Sports, Hospitality and Entertainment District (SHED), where the MADY/Fortress Real Developments project will be located.

The project's residents will be in close proximity to many of the city's most important arts, cultural and entertainment venues. Just one block north is the MTS Centre, a new state-of-the-art sports and entertainment centre that is home to the Winnipeg Jets and site of many big-name concerts and events. Nearby is the RBC Convention Centre, undergoing a $180-million-plus expansion, another important anchor in the SHED.

LiveWorkPlay Winnipeg residents will also be close to the shops, services and restaurants of Cityplace and Winnipeg Square, the Millennium Library, the Burton Cummings Theatre for the Performing Arts, and cinemas. Within walking distance are the Forks and the Exchange District national historic sites and Festival and Bonnycastle parks.

With the exciting renaissance of the city core continuing, and the addition of new condo and apartment buildings bringing an influx of new residents, the downtown is evolving into a vibrant and dynamic place to live.

The MADY/Fortress Real Developments complex will be an important component in the evolution of the downtown and an ideal location for those who want to live in a pedestrian-oriented neighbourhood close to shopping, transit, entertainment and employment where they can live, work and play.

MADY is one of the most active development companies in southern Ontario and the 25th largest contractor in Canada, providing building services to institutions, retailers and other developers. Canadian real estate company Fortress Real Developments seeks out opportunities in major Canadian markets and focuses on quality residential lowrise and highrise, commercial and industrial projects, and on-land servicing opportunities.

The expected launch of LiveWorkPlay Winnipeg is mid 2014. For more information, visit liveworkplaywinnipeg.com.

BE A PART OF HISTORY.

NAME THIS FUTURE LANDMARK DEVELOPMENT AND WIN $3000!

MADY and Fortress Real Developments are introducing an exciting new mixed-use landmark project in downtown Winnipeg at the corner of Graham Avenue and Garry Street. A game-changer for the city, and a feat of excellence in architecture and design.

This mixed-use development will be the first of its kind in Winnipeg. The tallest building between Toronto and Calgary. Home to over 400 luxury suites, a 25,000 square foot grocer, and over 15,000 square feet of amenities.

We're inviting you to be a part of this monumental development with our NAME THIS FUTURE LANDMARK DEVELOPMENT CONTEST. Submit your ideas by November 1st, 2013 and our panel of judges will select one name to crown this magnificent project. The winner will receive $3,000 and will become a part of Winnipeg history.

Unprotected QBs ripe for the picking

CFL. Teams may look to trade backup pivots prior to dispersal draft playing into hands of Blue Bombers

winnipeg@metronews.ca

When opportunity knocks, you better answer the call — especially when you're the worst team in the Canadian Football League and lack a legit No. 1 quarterback.

A truly unique opportunity awaits acting general manager Kyle Walters and the Winnipeg Blue Bombers as they search for the future leader of their offence.

With the expansion Ottawa RedBlacks officially joining the CFL this winter, a dispersal draft to stock the roster of the league's ninth franchise will be held on Dec. 16. Each CFL club can protect one of their 2013 roster quarterbacks from being selected.

Unlike Winnipeg, where Max Hall has shown to be the only pivot worthy of protection, several teams across the league have difficult decisions to make as they may lose a very good quarterback and receive nothing in return. This opens the door for Walters to work to acquire a coveted quarterback via trade in the two weeks immediately following the Grey Cup game before the Dec. 9 protection list deadline.

Toronto's 25-year-old Zach Collaros is a popular target,

The Blue Bombers could target Argos quarterback Zach Collaros in a trade prior to the dispersal draft on Dec. 16.

STEVE RUSSELL/TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

with future Hall-of-Fame QB Ricky Ray likely to be protected. Collaros is a proven commodity at a young age, leading the Argos to four consecutive come-from-behind victories on the road while Ray was injured earlier this year.

Hamilton's Dan LeFevour, 26, may be available if the Tiger-Cats opt to protect 38-year-old free agent and CFL passing leader Henry Burris. Other potential targets include B.C.'s Thomas DeMarco, 24, Saskatchewan's Drew Willy, 26, and one of Calgary's three capable signal-callers; Bo Levi Mitchell, 23, Drew Tate, 29, or Kevin Glenn, 34.

Week 19 pick

The Hamilton Tiger-Cats have clinched a home play-off game heading into their regular-season finale, but Henry Burris won't have the weekend off.

The veteran quarterback will start Saturday when Hamilton (9-8) visits Winnipeg (3-14). The contest has no impact on the East Division standings as the Ticats have cemented second spot.

Quarterback Alex Hall (hip) is ready to go for Winnipeg, which will look to avoid tying its worst-ever record over 18 games. Hall will be playing for a job next season.

The Bombers will be without defensive linemen Greg Peach (groin) and Mike McAdoo (shoulder), receivers Terrence Edwards (groin) and Mike Sims-Walker (knee) and offensive lineman Pat Neufeld (shin).

Pick: Hamilton.

MMJHL

Charleswood Hawks on the rise

The Charleswood Hawks are starting to regain some of their form after a slow start early in the season.

Last year's first-place club started this year towards the bottom of the pack; however, they have won five straight to vault them higher in the standings. The Hawks (7-4-1) sit third overall.

Friday-night Manitoba Major Junior Hockey League action has the undefeated St. Boniface Riels visiting the Seven Oaks Raiders, the River East Royal Knights playing host to the St. James Canucks, and the red-hot Pembina Valley Twisters visiting the St. Vital Victorias.

Las Vegas gives Dodgers the very early edge to win 2014 World Series Winning another World Series didn't automatically make the Boston Red Sox favourites to repeat next year.

Odds-makers in Las Vegas's sports books like the Los Angeles Dodgers to win it all in 2014 with most making them an 8-1 pick for the title. At the Wynn hotel-casino the Detroit Tigers are next at 9-1, followed by the Red Sox at 10-1.

"There's no real clear-cut favourite," said Johnny Avello, who runs the Wynn book. "When you see odds like that on future bets it tells you there are a lot of teams in the hunt." THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Free to play. Varlamov able to travel with team while charges pending

Colorado Avalanche goalie Semyon Varlamov will be able to travel with the team while prosecutors consider whether he should be charged with assaulting his girlfriend.

On Thursday, a judge said Varlamov could be released if he posted $5,000 US bond and be allowed to travel with the team but he was ordered to stay away from his girlfriend, among other restrictions.

The girlfriend told investigators that Varlamov kicked her in the chest, knocking her down, and stomped on her chest as she lay on the ground in her apartment on Monday, according to an arrest affidavit. The girlfriend, whose name was redacted, also accused Varlamov of dragging her by her hair and telling her that he would have beaten her more if they had been in Russia.

Varlamov appeared in court briefly Thursday. He spent the night in jail after turning himself in on Wednesday. He stood next to his lawyer to face Denver County Judge Claudia Jordan, who also told him, through a Russian interpreter, that he couldn't drink or possess firearms. He also had to sign a waiver that he would be immediately sent back to Colorado if he fled.

The 25-year-old turned himself in to police Wednesday evening, after practising with the team that day. He was arrested on suspicion of second-degree kidnapping and third-degree assault.

Varlamov's agent, Paul Theofanous, said he "is completely innocent of all of these charges."

Varlamov's lawyer, Jack Rotole, declined to comment on the case, saying he would defend his client in court.

Boston Strong.

Marathon runner finds bittersweet ending in Red Sox victory

For fans, players and political leaders who celebrated the Red Sox's World Series title with cries of "Boston Strong," the championship provided a jubilant finish to a season that was shadowed nearly from the start by the April bombings at the Boston Marathon.

The morning after he cheered the victory inside Fenway Park, Ed Carlson returned Thursday to the marathon finish line he had crossed months earlier, 20 minutes before the bombs went off, and then had scrambled to find his children in the ensuing chaos.

The success of the Red Sox, who finished last in their division only a year ago, became a welcome surprise and eventually a symbol of resilience for a city recovering from the twin bombings that killed three people and wounded more than 260. People periodically stopped around the finish line on Thursday morning to offer a solemn tribute.

Carlson, who was taking in the scene with his 17-year-old daughter, wore a new Red Sox World Series Champions baseball hat along with the same blue and yellow marathon jacket he wore to every Sox game he attended over the season. At Wednesday night's game, he had his marathon medal in his pocket. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

NFL. Shanahan calls Haynesworth 'lazy'

Mike Shanahan levelled a scathing critique at Albert Haynesworth on Thursday, saying the former Redskins defensive lineman was "lazy" and had a "lack of passion" and "lack of character."

The Washington Redskins coach was responding to comments made this week by Haynesworth, who told Tennessee Sports Radio that Shanahan is "conniving," self-centred and will run quarterback Robert Griffin III "into the ground."

Asked for his reaction, Shanahan began his answer and then stopped himself and started over — because he wanted to "say it the right way."

Then he hammered home a zinger.

"When you don't get along with somebody as a head coach or an assistant coach, it usually falls into one of those areas — lazy, lack of passion, and a lot of times lack of character," Shanahan said. "And he fits all three."

Haynesworth signed a $100-million free-agent contract with the Redskins in 2009, but he and Shanahan clashed frequently after the coach arrived in Washington a year later. THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

New hitting coach aims to use the whole field

Throughout last season Blue Jays manager John Gibbons lauded hitters who "used the whole field," could drive the ball gap-to-gap and were not wholly dependent on a pull-happy power stroke.

It's no surprise then that the hitting coach he and GM Alex Anthopoulos have hired to replace Chad Mottola is one who shares that philosophy.

The Jays announced Thursday that Gibbons' former colleague with the Kansas City Royals, Kevin Seitzer, has been named the team's new hitting coach.

Gibbons worked alongside Seitzer with the Royals for three seasons, from 2009 to 2011, when Gibbons was the team's bench coach.

Seitzer said he developed his philosophy from his personal experience and also "special conversations with some very good hitters," singling out George Brett, Paul Molitor, Dave Winfield and about a dozen of the game's best hitters from the '80s and '90s. TORSTAR NEWS SERVICE

Rose rises late in game as Bulls solve Knicks

NBA. Chicago point guard clinches victory in second game back from lengthy recovery from ACL surgery

Bulls guard Derrick Rose looks to pass against the Knicks on Thursday night in Chicago. GETTY IMAGES

Derrick Rose made a baseline floater with 5.7 seconds left to lift the Chicago Bulls to an 82-81 victory over the New York Knicks on Thursday night in his first home game since he injured his left knee 18 months ago.

Rose had 18 points on 7-for-23 shooting and committed four turnovers. But there was no doubt who was getting the ball after Tyson Chandler went 1-for-2 at the line to give

New York an 81-80 lead with 10.8 seconds remaining.

The speedy point guard, who was a game-time decision for his return due to a sore neck, got the ball on the wing and drove to the baseline for the go-ahead basket, drawing a standing ovation from the delirious crowd at the United Center.

New York had one last chance but Carmelo Anthony missed a long jumper.

"Thanks very much for handling the sale of my Odyssey van. It was my first experience dealing with ADESA Winnipeg and the information provided and the speed with which my sale was handled were both a pleasant surprise. Having the vehicle picked up was a big help and the fact that it was sold almost immediately for an amount in excess of our asking price was very satisfying."

VEHICLE HISTORY REPORTS

Horoscopes

Aries

March 21 - April 20

You may be envious of a rival's success but it's a waste of time. If you compare yourself to others, you will always find someone who has done better than you. Compare yourself to who you were yesterday.

Taurus

April 21 - May 21

A loved one may be giving you a hard time and you may have every right to hit back at them but is that such a good idea? According to the planets, you should let it go and let them get past this negative phase.

Gemini

May 22 - June 21

Don't let yourself get upset about little things. The Sun's link to retrograde Mercury in the work and wellbeing area of your chart today warns you to watch your temper.

Cancer

June 22 - July 23

There are so many good things going on in your world that you may worry you don't really deserve it all — but you do. The planets are simply rewarding you for past efforts you made on other people's behalf.

Leo

July 24 - Aug. 23

Make the most of what you have and don't worry that others may have more than you. Life is not a game where the one with the most wins. Life is a process to be enjoyed.

Virgo

Aug. 24 - Sept. 23

It would be unwise to reach a decision today without seeking advice from people you trust. With Mercury, your ruler, moving retrograde you may not be seeing things straight.

Libra

Sept. 24 - Oct. 23

Try not to get annoyed with the varied fools you have to deal with today. They can't help it if, compared to you, they don't have a clue what's going on. If anything, feel sorry for them.

Scorpio

Oct. 24 - Nov. 22

Mercury in your sign makes your mind sharper than usual but because it links to slow-moving Pluto today you may find it hard to reach any lasting conclusions. That's good, as most likely they'll be wrong.

Sagittarius

Nov. 23 - Dec. 21

If there is something you are hiding and you will no doubt be dismayed when it becomes public knowledge. Don't be embarrassed though, it's OK.

Capricorn

Dec. 22 - Jan. 20

You are more than impatient with people who move slowly. However, the more you try to hurry them along, the more they drag their feet. What can you do about it? Nothing. Perhaps you should move more slowly yourself.

Aquarius

Jan. 21 - Feb. 19

Resist the urge to make decisions about your social or professional situation. With mind planet Mercury in the career area of your chart linked to unpredictable Uranus they will most likely be wrong.

Pisces

Feb. 20 - March 20

It would appear that a friend is in an argumentative mood and would like nothing better than to engage you in the kind of debate you cannot win. Give it a miss! SALLY BROMPTON
